

Styrene is a building block chemical that is used in the production of many different kinds of consumer products. Styrene is made from ethylbenzene.

STYRENE is primarily used for thermoplastics, and also latex and thermosets.

